Case No. CV 10-03561 WHA

ORACLE'S NOTICE OF APPEAL TO THE U.S. COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE FEDERAL CIRCUIT

1 Notice is hereby given that Oracle America, Inc. (“Oracle”), in the above-captioned case, 2 hereby appeals to the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit pursuant to 28 U.S.C.
3 §§ 1295(a)(1), from the Final Judgment (ECF No. 1989), entered in this action on the 8th day of 4 June, 2016, and from any and all other judgments, orders, opinions, decisions, rulings, and 5 findings subsidiary thereto, subsumed therein, or subsequent thereto, including, without 6 limitation, the district court’s decision (ECF No. 2070), entered in this action on the 27th of 7 September, 2016, denying Oracle’s renewed motion for judgment as a matter of law and Oracle’s 8 motion for a new trial, and from any and all other judgments, orders, opinions, decisions, rulings, 9 and findings of the district court entered prior or subsequent to the entry of the Final Judgment.

04/15/2016	1673	Minute Entry for proceedings held before Magistrate Judge Paul Singh Grewal: Settlement Conference held on 4/15/2016. Court comment: After an earlier run at settling this case failed, the court observed that some cases just need to be tried. This case apparently needs to be tried twice. However unsuccessful, the court appreciates the parties' settlement efforts earlier today--especially those of Ms. Catz and Mr. Pichai. No further settlement talks are scheduled. Total Time in Court: 6 hours. Court Reporter: Not Reported. Plaintiff Attorneys present: Matthew Sarboraria, Lisa Simpson and Annette Hurst. Also present: Safra Catz and Georges Saab. Defendant Attorneys present: Christa Anderson, Michael Kwun and Renny Hwang. Also present: Sundar Pichai, Hiroshi Lockheimer, Catherine Lacavera and Kent Walker. This is a text only Minute Entry. IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

ORACLE AMERICA, INC.,

No. C 10-03561 WHA

Plaintiff,

v.

GOOGLE INC.,

ORDER DENYING RENEWED
MOTION FOR JUDGMENT
AS A MATTER OF LAW AND MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL

Defendant.

INTRODUCTION

In this copyright infringement action, the jury found the accused infringement constituted fair use. The copyright owner now renews its motion for judgment as a matter of law and separately moves for a new trial. For the reasons stated below, both motions are DENIED.

STATEMENT

The history of this case appears earlier (Dkt. No. 1988). In brief, Oracle America, Inc., formerly Sun Microsystems, Inc., has sued Google Inc. for copyright infringement with respect to Google's "reimplementation" of certain API packages in copyrighted Java 2 Standard Edition Versions 1.4 and 5. Following remand from the Federal Circuit, this action proceeded to a second jury trial on fair use, infringement otherwise having been established in the first trial as to certain uses. A pretrial order divided the second trial into phases. Phase one addressed defendant Google's fair use defense. Had the jury found for Oracle during phase one, the same jury would have determined willfulness and monetary remedies in phase two. A third phase,

1 before the judge only, would have determined whether Oracle deserved equitable remedies, 2 including whether Google had equitable defenses.

3 In phase one, the ten-person jury returned a unanimous verdict finding that Google had 4 carried its burden on the defense of fair use. A comprehensive order denied both sides' motions 5 for judgment as a matter of law, so judgment was entered in Google's favor (Dkt. No. 1988).

6 Oracle now repeats its motion for judgment, adding a further motion for a new trial 7 under Rule 59. This order follows full briefing, oral argument, and supplemental declarations 8 addressing discovery issues raised in support of a new trial request.

9 ANALYSIS

10 1. RENEWED MOTION FOR JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW.

11 Oracle's new Rule 50 motion is denied for the same reasons as its old one (Dkt. No.
12 1988).¹

13 2. MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL.

14 Pursuant to Rule 59(a)(1)(A), a court may grant a new trial "for any reason for which a 15 new trial has heretofore been granted in an action at law." Rule 61 provides that "no error in 16 admitting or excluding evidence" constitutes a ground for granting a new trial "unless justice so 17 requires." A district court has broad discretion in deciding whether to admit or exclude 18 evidence. Ruvalcaba v. City of Los Angeles, 64 F.3d 1323, 1328 (9th Cir. 1995). A district 19 court also has broad discretion in deciding whether to bifurcate a trial. See Danjaq LLC v. Sony 20 Corp., 263 F.3d 942, 961–62 (9th Cir. 2001). To warrant a new trial on these grounds, the 21 movant must show that the Court's rulings constituted an abuse of discretion plus caused it 22 substantial prejudice.

23 Oracle's motion for a new trial challenges several discretionary decisions made at trial.
24 Oracle's primary argument, however, is that Google perpetrated discovery-concealment 25 misconduct. The charged misconduct, Oracle says, rates as a "game changer." For important 26 context, however, this order first addresses Oracle's related contention that the Court abused its

27 28 ¹ Oracle's argument that it is entitled to a new trial because the verdict was against the weight of the evidence, which incorporates by reference its brief on the motion for judgment as a matter of law, fails for the same reason.

1 discretion in limiting the trial to Android as used in smartphones and tablets, postponing all 2 other uses to later trials.

3 A. New Device Categories and Scope of Trial.

4 The original trial in 2010 covered Android versions called 1.0, 1.1, Cupcake, Donut, 5 Eclair, and Froyo, as used in smartphones and tablets. The original jury found those versions 6 infringed but deadlocked over fair use. On remand, the issue arose whether to retry that same 7 case taking the infringement verdict as a given and postponing later developments to a future 8 trial versus whether to expand the retrial to include post-2010 developments, a question that 9 came into focus as follows.

10 After the remand, Oracle sought leave to file a supplemental complaint. Oracle's 11 eventual motion for leave to file a supplemental complaint drew no opposition, and the motion 12 was granted. The supplemental complaint identified six further versions of Android released 13 since the original complaint. It further alleged that Google had implemented Android in various 14 new device categories, including automobiles, wristwatches, televisions, and household 15 appliances (Dkt. No. 1292).

16 Disagreement surfaced when the parties served their new expert reports. Oracle's 17 expert reports evaluated Google's alleged use of new API packages from Java 2 Standard 18 Edition Versions 6 and 7. But those versions had never been asserted in any operative pleading, 19 including even the supplemental complaint. Only versions 1.4 and 5 had been asserted. Only 20 versions 1.4 and 5 had been presented to the original jury and found to have been infringed.
21 Google moved to strike the overreaching passages of Oracle's expert reports. This led to a 22 hearing that featured the peril of the retrial spinning out of control via a piling on of ever-23 expanding "updating" issues. The Court expressed concern over the ever-mounting prolixity of 24 this case and the need for a cutoff of new device implementations to be tried (without prejudice 25 to trying the rest later). The Court observed (Dkt. No. 1470 at 9–10):

26 There's a much cleaner way to deal with this. We can roll back the 27 clock to the moment that that [earlier] trial took place, and try it on 28 that set of facts and the circumstances then. And then all these new products by [Oracle] and these new products by Google would not be in play.

1 And what that means is, over there on the Google side, that you're 2 going to have to face another lawsuit downstream

3 In other words, the practical approach remained retrying the very trial revived by the Federal 4 Circuit, complicated as it already was, preserving the infringement verdict, and saving for a 5 later day all of the subsequent developments.

6 Nevertheless, the retrial expanded in two important ways. First, in light of Google's 7 stipulation that the earlier jury's finding of infringement should apply to all later versions of 8 Android up through Lollipop, a pretrial order eventually held that our retrial would cover those 9 versions. A later stipulation included Marshmallow as well, adding a total of seven new major 10 releases of Android to the original six. The second expansion was to include the post-2010 time 11 period covered by these versions.

12 These expansions, by themselves, led to a vast inflation of Oracle's claimed recovery.
13 At the first trial, Oracle's claim for monetary remedies clocked in at much less than a billion 14 dollars, but now they rose to nine billion. The vast inflation flowed from the longer time period 15 of sales of smartphones and tablets as well as the longer list of implicated versions of Android.
16 The vast inflation resulted even though the uses on trial for the fair use defense remained, as 17 before, smartphones and tablets.

18 The trial was not, however, expanded to include certain other more recent uses like 19 Android TV, Android Auto, Android Wear, or Brillo. They presented a messier problem and 20 were excluded from the scope of the upcoming trial (without prejudice to a later trial to cover 21 them). Notably, the parties couldn't agree on whether the original verdict of infringement 22 would have covered those uses (since they arose after the original verdict, and no evidence on 23 them was presented at the original trial). Had those uses been included in the retrial, Oracle 24 would have had the burden, Google urged, to prove that those uses infringed, rather than 25 relying, as Oracle wished to do, solely on the original verdict of infringement and imposing on 26 Google the burden to prove fair use. Oracle offered to move for summary judgment to establish 27 that the original finding of infringement should be extended to these new implementations, but 28 by the time of that offer, there wasn't sufficient time for the Court to pursue that alternative while sorting out the superabundance of pretrial issues.

1 To repeat, all agree that under the pretrial orders, Oracle remained (and remains) free to 2 pursue its claims for infringement arising from Google's implementations of Android in devices 3 other than smartphones and tablets in a separate proceeding and trial.

4 The scope-of-trial issue surfaced in a second way. Oracle sought to introduce evidence 5 of the excluded device categories at trial as part of its evidence of market harm under the 6 fourth fair use factor. An order in limine, however, held that the only uses set for trial were 7 smartphones and tablets (again without prejudice to a separate future trial as to other uses) 8 (Dkt. No. 1781).

9 In its new trial motion, Oracle now argues that it was error to limit the device uses in 10 play to smartphones and tablets. We should have had one mega-trial on all uses, it urges. This, 11 however, ignores the fact that Oracle's earlier win on infringement in 2010 — the same win it 12 wished to take as a given without relitigation — concerned only smartphones and tablets. And, 13 it ignores the obvious — one use might be a fair use but another use might not, and the four 14 statutory factors are to be applied on a use-by-use basis. Significantly, the language of Section 15 107(4) of Title 17 of the United States Code directs us to consider “the effect of the use upon 16 the potential market for or value of the copyrighted work.” Oracle cites no authority 17 whatsoever for the proposition that all uses must stand or fall together under the fair use test of 18 Section 107.

19 True, the fourth fair use factor must consider “whether unrestricted and widespread 20 conduct of the sort engaged in by the defendant would result in a substantially adverse impact 21 on the potential market for the original.” Campbell v. Acuff-Rose Music, Inc., 510 U.S. 569, 22 590 (1994). The concern with widespread use, however, is not whether uses distinct from the 23 accused uses — each of which must be subject to distinct transformativeness analyses — might 24 harm the market for the copyrighted works. Rather, the concern is whether a use of the same 25 sort, if multiplied via use by others, would cause market harm, even though the actual use by 26 the infringer caused only minimal harm. That is not our case. Again, our trial concerned two 27 very important uses — smartphones and tablets — uses that implicated many billions of dollars.
28 All other uses remained open for litigation in further trials.

1 Oracle relies on decisions from our court of appeals holding that supplementation of a 2 complaint “is favored.” E.g., Planned Parenthood of Southern Arizona v. Neely, 130 F.3d 400, 3 402 (9th Cir. 1997). It argues that postponing its claims relating to devices other than 4 smartphones and tablets contravened the purpose of “promot[ing] as complete an adjudication 5 of the dispute between the parties as is possible.” LaSalvia v. United Dairymen, 804 F.2d 1113, 6 1119 (9th Cir. 1986). Oracle provides a five-page description of the various markets such as 7 automobiles, healthcare devices, “Internet of Things,” appliances, and machine-to-machine 8 communication — all involving vastly different technology and functionality from smartphones 9 and tablets — in which Oracle has allegedly suffered harm due to Google’s Android-related 10 offerings.

11 Allowing complaints to be supplemented is favored, but a district judge still has a 12 separate responsibility to manage complex cases, including to decide which issues should be 13 tried in which trial. Good reasons rooted in case and trial management favored the eventual 14 scope of our trial.

15 Oracle itself, it must be said, successfully excluded at least one post-2010 development 16 that would have helped Google. Specifically, a pretrial ruling obtained by Oracle excluded 17 evidence tendered by Google with respect to Android Nougat. Significantly, this evidence 18 would have shown that (back in 2008) all of the accused APIs could simply have been taken 19 from OpenJDK, Sun’s own open-source version of Java, apparently in full compliance with the 20 open-source license. Put differently, Sun itself had given away Java (including all of the lines 21 of code in suit) in 2008 via its open-source OpenJDK. In 2015, Google used OpenJDK to 22 reimplement the Java APIs for the latest release of Android, which it called Nougat. Google 23 wished to use this evidence under the fourth fair use factor to show that its infringement did no 24 more market harm than Sun itself had already invited via its own OpenJDK release. Despite its 25 importance, the Court excluded this development because it had not been presented by Google 26 in time for effective rebuttal by Oracle. This exclusion was a major win for Oracle in the weeks 27 leading up to trial.
28

1 Oracle also argues that the first trial was not expressly limited to smartphones and 2 tablets, so it was inappropriate to impose that limitation for the retrial. This isn't correct. In 3 2012, at our first trial, Oracle presented no evidence of any uses beyond smartphones and 4 tablets. The other alleged uses lay in the future and were not considered by our first jury.
5 Google simply had not yet implemented any aspect of Android on any of the new devices at that 6 time.

7 After considerable deliberation, the Court exercised its discretion to limit the scope of 8 our trial to address the issue of whether the uses of the copyrighted materials considered at the 9 first trial — smartphones and tablets — including all thirteen versions of Android enabling 10 those uses were fair or not, saving for a future trial new and different uses. In this way, Oracle 11 was allowed to take unquestioned advantage of the infringement verdict in the first trial while 12 also taking full advantage of the subsequent revenue derived from those very device 13 implementations — smartphones and tablets. That limitation also protected our second jury 14 from needing to absorb ever greater complexity in technology and the business models of new 15 and different uses. Oracle remains free to pursue those new and later uses in a future lawsuit, 16 but it is not entitled to a new trial as to smartphones and tablets.²

17 B. The Charge of Discovery Misconduct and ARC++.

18 With the benefit of the foregoing history of the smartphones and tablets limitation, we 19 turn to Oracle's charge of discovery misconduct. This charge is not anchored in any claimed 20 error by the judge but is anchored in claimed misconduct by Google and its counsel.

21 At both trials, Google argued that Android's use of the copyrighted lines of code 22 qualified as "transformative" (under the first fair use factor) because Java had been designed 23 for desktops and laptops whereas Android transformed the code at issue to work in the then 24 newly-emerging world of smartphones and tablets. Thus, Google drew a significant distinction 25 between desktops and laptops (Java) and smartphones and tablets (Android). Oracle now

26
27 ² After the verdict, the Court invited counsel to propose scheduling for exactly such a trial on the 28 alleged new and different uses, but both sides preferred to enter a final judgment and proceed to appeals with the understanding that the alleged new and different uses were still open for future lawsuits (Dkt. Nos.
2049–50).

1 accuses Google of withholding evidence in discovery that allegedly would have shown that 2 Google was, by the close of our retrial, expecting soon to implement Android on desktops and 3 laptops too. This argument will now be set out in detail.

4 Throughout the supplemental discovery period following the remand, Oracle 5 sought discovery into all Google products that incorporated the copyrighted lines at issue.
6 In response, Google identified its App Runtime for Chrome (“ARC”), which enabled laptops 7 and desktops running Google’s computer operating system, Chrome OS, to run certain 8 Android applications. Chrome OS was and remains a different operating system from Android 9 (Lin Dep. at 14–19, 107–09). ARC operated on top of Chrome OS and offered all of the 10 Android APIs reimplemented from the Java code at issue. A related project, ARC Welder, 11 enabled Android app developers to repackage the code in their apps for use on Chrome OS 12 devices via ARC.

13 One of Oracle’s own technical experts, Robert Zeidman, addressed ARC in detail in his 14 opening report (Zeidman Rep. ¶¶ 126–43). Oracle’s damages expert, James Malackowski, 15 opined in his opening report that Google’s release of ARC and ARC Welder and the 16 availability of some Android functionality on Chrome OS devices “means Google is now using 17 Android to occupy the original, traditional market of the Java Platform” (Malackowski Rep.
18 ¶ 172). Oracle, however, never sought to introduce any of the evidence on which these 19 comments were based (or to introduce the expert testimony). Oracle does not accuse anyone of 20 misconduct as to ARC, but ARC supplies relevant background.

21 Now we come to the crux of the matter. In 2015, Google began a new project, which it 22 internally called “ARC++.” Among the goals of ARC++ was to “[p]rovide Chrome OS users 23 with Play Android apps on Chrome OS without developer action” (Anderson Decl., Exh. 7 at 24 *785). That is, Google intended for ARC++ to make the “entire Android app ecosystem” 25 available on Chrome OS devices, so that Android apps would “appear alongside Chrome apps” 26 in the Chrome OS program menu (id., Exh. 8 at *404, Exh. 10 at *396). With ARC++, Google 27 planned to run “Android in an isolated container inside Chrome OS,” and “[i]nside the 28 container should be effectively another Linux environment, similar to on an actual device”

1 (id., Exh. 9 at *417). That is, ARC++ would run an isolated instance of Android (with all of 2 Android’s public APIs, including those reimplemented from Java) in order to allow users to 3 run all Android apps on Chrome OS devices. Google planned to include its “Play Store” — 4 Google’s app wherein users could purchase and download other Android apps — as part of 5 ARC++ to facilitate access to those apps.

6 In 2015, Google produced to Oracle at least nine documents relating to ARC++ setting 7 forth the information in the preceding paragraph (along with more extensive technical details) 8 and tracking the development of the project (Anderson Decl. ¶¶ 16–20, Exhs. 6–14). This is a 9 key fact in resolving the accusation at hand.

10 Our trial began on May 9, 2016. Our last day of evidence was May 19, which 11 happened also to be the second day of Google’s annual developer conference. On that day, 12 Google announced via a blog post that it would make all Android apps available for use on 13 Chrome OS devices via the Play Store (id., Exh. 15). Although the announcement did not refer 14 to this new feature as ARC++ (no name was given), it reflected the same goals and technical 15 details as the ARC++ project. The announcement stated the feature would first roll out on the 16 experimental developer channel, though over time it would become generally available. The 17 same day at the developer conference, Google demonstrated the use of the Play Store with 18 several Android apps on Chrome OS devices. The presenters acknowledged the technical 19 limitations of the earlier ARC, stating that Google was “building a whole new platform to run 20 Android apps on Chromebooks,” i.e., on laptops and desktops (Bush Decl., Exh. J at 3:30).
21 One presenter explained that the new feature ran Android “directly on top of the Linux kernel 22 [of Chrome OS].” Users could “run all of Android Marshmallow within Chrome OS. This 23 includes the Google Play Store” (id. at 7:10).

24 In short, the announcement indicated that the full functionality of Android would soon 25 be working on desktops and laptops, not just on smartphones and tablets.

26 Oracle now contends that Google’s failure to supplement several responses to 27 interrogatories, requests for admission, and requests for production of documents, as well as 28

1 the deposition testimony of two witnesses to reflect developments in the ARC++ project 2 constituted discovery misconduct warranting a new trial.

3 “The test to be applied when discovery misconduct is alleged in a Rule 59 motion must 4 be borrowed from cases interpreting Rule 60(b)(3)” Jones v. Aero/Chem Corp., 921 F.2d 5 875 (9th Cir. 1990). Rule 60(b)(3) provides for relief from judgment for “fraud (whether 6 previously called intrinsic or extrinsic), misrepresentation, or misconduct by an opposing 7 party” To establish misconduct under Rule 60(b)(3), a moving party must:

8 (1) prove by clear and convincing evidence that the verdict was 9 obtained through fraud, misrepresentation, or other misconduct.

10 (2) establish that the conduct complained of prevented the losing 11 party from fully and fairly presenting his case or defense.
12 Although when the case involves the withholding of information 13 called for by discovery, the party need not establish that the result 14 in the case would be altered.

15 Ibid. (quoting Bunch v. United States, 680 1271, 1283 (9th Cir. 1982)). A movant need not 16 show that there would have been a different outcome without the alleged misconduct but need 17 only demonstrate “‘substantial interference’ by showing ‘the material’s likely worth as trial 18 evidence or by elucidating its value as a tool for obtaining meaningful discovery.’” Ibid.
19 (quoting Anderson v. Cryovac, Inc., 862 F.2d 910 (1st Cir. 1988)).

20 Our court of appeals has recognized a “presumption of substantial interference if [the 21 moving party] can demonstrate the misconduct was sufficiently knowing, deliberate or 22 intentional.” Ibid. Although Jones did not expressly lay out the framework for applying that 23 presumption, it stated that Anderson, a decision from the First Circuit, “summarized the 24 applicable standards and burdens of proof.” Ibid. Anderson, 862 F.2d at 925, held that the 25 presumption of substantial interference “may be refuted by clear and convincing evidence 26 demonstrating that the withheld material was in fact inconsequential.”

27 The oral argument on Oracle’s motion for a new trial, which lasted two hours, focused 28 almost exclusively on Oracle’s “game changer” allegation of discovery misconduct. Following the hearing, counsel for both sides were ordered to file sworn declarations detailing Oracle’s discovery requests on this point and Google’s responses. After reviewing the parties’ submissions, the Court called for sworn replies.

1 Throughout the briefing and argument on this motion, Oracle left the distinct 2 impression — more accurately distinct misimpression — that Google had stonewalled and had 3 completely concealed the ARC++ project. This was an unfair argument.

4 In fact, Google timely produced at least nine documents discussing the goals and 5 technical details of ARC++ and did so back in 2015, at least five months before trial. Counsel 6 for Oracle now acknowledges their legal team never reviewed those documents until the 7 supplemental briefing on this motion (Hurst Reply Decl. ¶ 12). The Court is disappointed that 8 Oracle fostered this impression that no discovery had been timely provided on the ARC++
9 project eventually announced on May 19.³

10 Rule 26(e) requires a party to supplement discovery responses in a timely manner only 11 “if the additional or corrective information has not otherwise been made known to the other 12 parties during the discovery process or in writing” (or if otherwise ordered by the Court). This 13 creates a “‘duty to supplement,’ not a right.” Luke v. Fam. Care and Urgent Med. Clinics, 323 14 Fed. Appx. 496, 500 (9th Cir. 2009). Nevertheless, Google had no duty to supplement 15 responses with new information that had already been disclosed in the ARC++ documents 16 already produced.

17 Oracle should have known that items produced in response to its own document 18 requests potentially contained information that supplemented Google’s earlier written 19 discovery responses. Oracle’s failure to review the ARC++ documents is its own fault.

20 It’s important, most of all, to step back and remember the scope of our trial.
21 Significantly, any evidence relating to implementations of Android on devices other than 22 smartphones and tablets fell outside the scope of our trial, which was limited to uses on 23

24 ³ Oracle contends that Google should have produced source code for the ARC++ project in response to 25 a request for source code that “can be used to facilitate use of Android” on devices other than smartphones and 26 tablets or that it should have identified ARC++ in an interrogatory seeking identification of “any software based 27 on or derived from” Android that incorporated the 37 reimplemented Java API packages, among other similar 28 requests. Google objected to vague language in those requests, and it was not clear to Google whether ARC++, which was in its early stages of development, would have been responsive to requests for information about “products,” “software,” or versions that were “developed or released,” all of which are directed to completed projects. Indeed, the parties met and conferred about discovery responses and discussed Google’s objections to Oracle’s vague references to efforts to “port Android to desktop,” but Oracle did not follow up on Google’s objections (Anderson Decl. ¶¶ 30–39).

1 smartphones and tablets. Within the scope of our trial, therefore, Google fairly argued that 2 Android was transformative because it took the declaring code in question, which had been 3 designed for desktops and laptops, and reimplemented it for use in a new context, smartphones 4 and tablets. It may well be true that the use of the copyrighted APIs in ARC++ (or any other 5 later use) will not qualify as a fair use, but that will not and does not mean that Google's 6 argument on transformative use as to the original uses on trial (smartphones and tablets) was 7 improper. That Oracle failed to detect the ARC++ documents in its possession had no 8 consequence within the defined scope of our trial.

9 Google committed a "fraud on the court," Oracle contends, by eliciting testimony that 10 Android had not caused any harm to the market for the copyrighted works because it was not 11 used on laptops and desktops. As stated, however, this remained a fair argument so long as the 12 trial was focused, as it was, on the original uses — smartphones and tablets — and it remained 13 a fair argument for the time period on trial (the blog announcement came later). The testimony 14 and argument in question fell within the defined scope of our trial. Had Oracle brought up 15 ARC or ARC++, the witnesses would plainly have clarified that their testimony related to the 16 accused uses on trial.

17 Oracle further notes that the order denying its motion for judgment as a matter of law 18 held that the jury could reasonably have found that "Android caused no harm to the market for 19 the copyrighted works, which were for desktop and laptop computers" (Dkt. No. 1988 at 17).
20 Again, "Android" in that context plainly referred to the accused original implementations of 21 Android within the defined scope of our trial.

22 Google's launch of the full Android system on Chrome OS also remains, even now, in 23 preliminary stages, available only to developers and on a limited set of devices. Oracle 24 already had evidence of ARC++, but didn't realize it. Thus, to the extent Google's recent 25 announcement had any value at our trial (or in discovery), Oracle already had evidence of the 26 same project (and its predecessor), and it passed on any opportunity to introduce that evidence.

27 Nor would evidence of ARC++ have caused any interference relating to the Court's 28 rulings limiting the scope of the trial. Indeed, in the briefing and argument on the scope of

1 trial, Oracle never once mentioned ARC, ARC++, or any other use on laptop and desktop 2 computers (neither did Google) (Dkt. Nos. 1559, 1612-3, 1643, 1682). This was so even 3 though Oracle Expert Malackowski had already opined that the release of ARC “means Google 4 is now using Android to occupy the original, traditional market of the Java Platform” 5 (Malackowski Rep. ¶ 172). Instead, at oral argument, Attorney Lisa Simpson for Oracle 6 identified “Android Auto” (not ARC or ARC++) as the most important implementation (to 7 Oracle) that Oracle wished to add (Dkt. No. 1682, Tr. at 123). Oracle contends that the 8 technical differences between ARC and ARC++ meant the latter presented a more compelling 9 narrative both in pretrial motion practice and at trial, but both projects made the same 37 10 reimplemented Java API packages available for use on Chrome OS; any differences between 11 ARC and ARC++ remained peripheral to Oracle’s interest in the projects.

12 Oracle’s purported “game changer” would not have changed anything at all, because 13 the scope of the “game” was smartphones and tablets, postponing new and later uses to a later 14 contest. ARC++ was not yet on trial. Thus, any failure to produce such evidence could not 15 have substantially interfered with Oracle’s preparation for our trial. On the contrary, it clearly 16 and convincingly would have been inconsequential.⁴

17 Oracle insists on taking depositions and document discovery into Google’s failure to 18 supplement all discovery responses to reflect the imminent release of a developer version of 19 ARC++ and to present its findings at an evidentiary hearing. Oracle cites Jones v. Aero/Chem
20 Corp., 921 F.2d 875 (9th Cir. 1990), for the proposition that failure to hold an evidentiary 21 hearing on this issue would be reversible error. This type of fishing expedition will not be 22 allowed, and Jones in no way requires such a course.

23 In Jones, two days after a jury found there had been no defect in the defendants’ 24 product, a third-party defendant produced a letter it received from one of the primary 25 defendants nearly a decade earlier indicating that the primary defendant had known of the 26 claimed defect and had explored remedial measures. The plaintiff moved for a new trial,

27
28 ⁴ Out of caution, this order makes clear that the test under Rule 59 is “substantial interference,” not “game changer.” The phrase “game changer” is Oracle’s phrase, even if it expresses a less favorable test than here applicable. This order applies the correct test, “substantial interference.”

1 claiming, inter alia, that the defendants had engaged in prejudicial discovery misconduct by 2 withholding the correspondence. “At the hearing on the motion [for a new trial], the district 3 court indicated it might later hold a hearing to determine whether [the] failure to produce the 4 documents involved misconduct.” Id. at 877.

5 Our court of appeals held that the district court improperly decided the motion based on 6 whether the withheld evidence would have resulted in a “different outcome,” rather than 7 whether it caused “substantial interference,” as required by decisions interpreting Rule 8 60(b)(3). The failure to hold a separate “hearing” — the court of appeals never referenced an 9 “evidentiary hearing,” contrary to Oracle — on the issue was a background circumstance. The 10 actual error was in the standard applied, not the procedure for applying that standard. Notably, 11 the court of appeals did not even require the district court to hold a subsequent hearing, but 12 rather directed it to hold “appropriate proceedings to determine” whether discovery misconduct 13 had occurred according to the proper standard.

14 In our case, the Court did hold “appropriate proceedings” and did hold a hearing at 15 which the proper standard — Rule 60(b)(3) — was considered, and it further required sworn 16 statements from counsel for both sides and then invited and considered sworn replies, all 17 detailing the discovery conduct at issue. After reviewing many pages and exhibits, the Court 18 finds that no misconduct has been shown (or would likely be shown even with the benefit of a 19 fishing expedition). Nor could any omission of evidence relating to ARC++ have interfered 20 with Oracle’s case at all, much less substantially. Contrary to Oracle, ARC++ documents were 21 in fact timely produced. They laid out the basic goals and technical details of the very product 22 referenced on May 19. Since Oracle had that information, there was no need to supplement the 23 written discovery to the extent evidence of ARC++ was responsive at all. Moreover, any 24 further disclosure of ARC++ would have been of no consequence in Oracle’s preparation for 25 our trial or its presentation at trial, which later became limited in scope to smartphones and 26 tablets. This ground for a new trial is rejected.

C. Stefano Mazzocchi.

Oracle next contends that a new trial is warranted due to the exclusion of minor evidence and testimony from Stefano Mazzocchi, a member of the board of directors of the Apache Software Foundation in 2008. Back then, Mazzocchi volunteered as a mentor overseeing the Apache Harmony Project and as a member of its Project Management Committee, which sought to create and offer an open-source reimplementations of the Java API. Google eventually used portions of the Harmony project in its reimplementations of 37 Java API packages in Android. Later on, Mazzocchi went to work for Google, but at the relevant time, he worked for neither side.

At our trial, Google presented evidence first (having the burden of proof), but it did not call Mazzocchi as a witness. Nevertheless, Google otherwise introduced evidence of Harmony to support its position that reimplementations of APIs without licenses flowered in the industry.

Oracle never properly designated Mazzocchi as a trial witness under Rule 26(a). Oracle wished to lay before the jury an email that Mazzocchi had sent in April 2008 during the development of Apache Harmony. (In fact, the exhibit was an email from the vice president of legal affairs at Apache and incorporated and responded to an email from Mazzocchi.) Despite Oracle's Rule 26 violation, the Court acquiesced in allowing Oracle to present almost everything it wished to present, including Mazzocchi and the email, save and except for two minor items.

Mazzocchi's email went to a mailing list of members of Apache (TX 5046). It expressed concern that Apache could not distribute Harmony without a license from Sun, even with new implementing code, because "the copyright on the API is real and hard to ignore." Mazzocchi added, "[s]o, we are, in fact, infringing on the spec lead copyright if we distribute something that has not passed the TCK and we know that." Our jury heard Mazzocchi's testimony regarding this email, and the entire email itself, including the quotations above, went into evidence, subject to one redaction.

1 That redaction is now the basis for Oracle's first assignment of error. Its second is that 2 Oracle was precluded from eliciting testimony that Mazzocchi worked for Google at the time 3 of the trial, though he had worked elsewhere when he sent the email.

4 (i) Redaction.

5 The Court held that Mazzocchi could testify and that his emails would be admitted, 6 over Google's objection, subject to redaction of the following sentence in the email (TX 5046):

7 This makes us already doing illegal things (in fact, Android 8 using Harmony is illegal as well).

9 An exchange regarding that redaction occurred (outside the presence of the jury) as follows 10 (Tr. at 1588):

11 THE COURT: However, the one sentence that I think is too 12 inflammatory and without foundation and should come out is the 13 one sentence that says "This makes us already doing illegal 14 things (in fact, Android using Harmony code is illegal as well)." That should not be used. But the two paragraphs that I think 15 you're more interested in, they can be used.

16 So that one sentence about "This makes us already doing illegal 17 things (in fact, Android using Harmony code is illegal as well)" 18 that should be deleted or at least redacted.

19 MS. HURST (for Oracle): We'll redact that, Your Honor.

20 Although, as just shown, Oracle's counsel readily accepted that redaction and the email, 21 as redacted, went before the jury, Oracle later — only after Mazzocchi had finished his 22 testimony and had been excused — requested that the Court remove the redaction (Dkt. No.
23 1925). This was denied, a denial that forms a basis for the new trial motion.

24 Oracle now argues that sufficient foundation existed because Mazzocchi had 25 "corresponded with the Apache Foundation's VP of Legal Affairs regarding legal issues related 26 to use of copyrighted Java APIs in the Harmony Project" (Pl.'s Mtn. at 16) (citing Tr. at 27 1712–13).

28 The so-called "correspondence" with the lawyer, it turns out, went into evidence as the thread leading up to the "Mazzocchi email" (TX 5046; Tr. at 1715). So, whatever foundation existed for the redacted sentence made its way to the jury anyway. (Perhaps this hearsay from the lawyer shouldn't have been admissible at all, but no objection on that ground was made.)

1 Significantly, nowhere in any passage written by any lawyer did anything come close to 2 what Mazzocchi said in the redacted sentence. So, the thread itself supplied inadequate 3 foundation. Even if Mazzocchi had consulted a lawyer beyond the thread itself (and no such 4 consultation was ever intimated), Mazzocchi himself was not a lawyer, so merely repeating 5 what some lawyer might have told him would have been hearsay (within hearsay).

6 Indeed, Mazzocchi's testimony before the jury demonstrated that his legal conclusion 7 was utterly without qualification (Tr. at 1727–28):

8 [MR. KWUN (for Google)]. So thinking back to April of 2008, 9 what, if anything, did you know about fair use in copyright law?

10 A. I don't recall knowing anything about that.

11 Q. Did you know what the legal standard is for fair use?

12 A. I don't — didn't and still don't.

13 Q. After the email exchange with Mr. Ruby, did you resign as 14 a member from the Apache Software Foundation?

15 A. No.

16 Q. And what, if anything, do you conclude from the fact that 17 you did not resign your membership after that email?

18 A. I really cared about my involvement in Apache. I mean, 19 this was all volunteer work, and I really wanted the foundation to 20 do the right thing for protection of the membership and also for 21 protection of the users.

22 I would have left slamming the door if I thought that what the 23 foundation was doing was causing harm or doing any illegal 24 things.

25 So since I wrote these email [sic], I must have changed my mind, 26 something must have changed my mind whether that was the case.
27 And I didn't leave.

28 Notwithstanding Mazzocchi's lack of training in the law, the Court allowed Oracle to make hay with "the copyright on the API is real and hard to ignore" and that releasing Harmony's

1 reimplementation of the Java API code without passing the compatibility test would have 2 constituted “infringing on the spec lead.”⁵

3 It is worth stressing that the email made no mention of “fair use.” It had nothing to do 4 with the fair use issue our jury had to decide. Mazzocchi admitted that he knew nothing about 5 fair use. The Court had already told the jury that Android infringed the copyright subject only 6 to the fair use defense, so a good case existed for excluding the entire email. Nevertheless, 7 virtually all of it came in.

8 Nor did Mazzocchi’s testimony, elicited by Google, that he “would have left slamming 9 the door [at Apache] if [he] thought that what the foundation was doing was causing harm or 10 doing any illegal things” open the door to using the redaction. Mazzocchi’s testimony already 11 responded to his understanding that Apache was infringing on Oracle’s copyright, and by noting 12 that something “changed [his] mind,” he acknowledged that his email reflected initial concern 13 about the legality of Apache’s work anyway. Admission of the redaction would have been 14 cumulative.

15 (ii) Mazzocchi’s Employment.

16 Oracle also contends that it should have been permitted to cross-examine Mazzocchi 17 based on his alleged bias as a current employee of Google. When the Court initially allowed 18 Oracle, despite its inadequate Rule 26 disclosure and over Google’s strenuous objection, to call 19 Mazzocchi as a witness, the Court did so to allow presentation of his views when he worked for 20 Apache in 2008 and ruled as follows (Tr. at 1589):

21 And don’t bring up that he works at Google now unless bias 22 becomes a problem. If it appears he’s been coached to say things 23 that may not be true, possibly then I would allow you to bring up 24 that he works for Google and that Google — he has met with the 25 lawyers and so forth. But for the time being, you should steer clear 26 of that. And you may treat him as an adverse witness.

27 ⁵ The Court similarly restricted Google from eliciting legal conclusions from former Sun CEO, 28 Jonathan Schwartz, about whether Sun had any legal claim against Google. After his testimony veered too close to that conclusion, the Court issued a corrective instruction and allowed Oracle to question Schwartz about a document that Oracle had improperly clawed back as privileged (Tr. at 508–10, 526). (Schwartz could not recall the document, so it was not admitted into evidence.)

1 During direct examination before the jury, and without seeking leave to address the issue, 2 counsel for Oracle asked Mazzocchi (after he denied recollection of the email containing the 3 “illegal things statement”) whether he had met with Google’s trial lawyers, which he confirmed 4 he had (Tr. at 1724). The Court allowed the questions over Google’s objection.

5 On cross-examination by Google, as stated, Mazzocchi testified that following the email 6 addressing the issue of Oracle’s copyright in the Java APIs with regard to Harmony “something 7 must have changed my mind whether that was the case” (Tr. at 1727). When Google passed the 8 witness back for redirect, Oracle requested a sidebar to be allowed to elicit the fact that 9 Mazzocchi became employed at Google the following year, in order to suggest it was his later 10 employment with Google that had “changed his mind” about the legal status of the Apache 11 Harmony project.

12 At the sidebar, the Court reviewed Mazzocchi’s testimony and concluded that he testified 13 that he would have left Apache sooner than 2009 if he had believed it had been doing something 14 illegal, while he didn’t begin his employment with Google until 2010. Contrary to Oracle, 15 Mazzocchi’s testimony suggested that something changed his mind before he began working 16 at Google.

17 Even so, Oracle was able to offer evidence of Mazzocchi’s purported bias by eliciting 18 testimony that Mazzocchi spoke with Google’s counsel before testifying (Tr. at 1724). Thus, the 19 probative value of evidence of Mazzocchi’s then-current employment was minimal, particularly 20 in light of the substantial risk that the jury would mistakenly ascribe Mazzocchi’s state of mind 21 while at Apache to Google. (Indeed, Oracle sought to ascribe Mazzocchi’s shift in his state of 22 mind to Google, although it predated his employment with Google.)

23 In the larger picture, the jury heard evidence, pro and con, from both Sun (Oracle) and 24 Google personnel concerning the extent to which reimplementations of APIs occurred in the 25 industry. In view of this sea of evidence, the Mazzocchi email was cumulative. Nevertheless, 26 virtually all of the email came into evidence, including his statement that reimplementing the 27 Java API in particular constituted infringement of the copyright.
28

1 Thus, Oracle's contention that it is entitled to a new trial on the basis of the excluded 2 evidence relating to Mazzocchi is rejected.

3 D. European Commission Response.

4 Oracle next contends that the Court improperly excluded a document containing 5 responses to questions posed by the European Commission in connection with its 2009 review of 6 Oracle's acquisition of Sun. The question called for an explanation of "the conflict between Sun 7 and Google with regard to Google's Android" (TX 5295 at 39). Oracle sought to admit its 8 response, which read, "Sun believes that the Dalvic [sic] virtual machine plus class libraries, 9 which together constitute Android runtime environment, are an unauthorized derivative work of 10 Java SE" (ibid.). Oracle wished to lay this response before the jury to meet testimony by Sun's 11 former CEO, Jonathan Schwartz, that Sun had welcomed Google's then-recent announcement of 12 Android as part of the Java community, and that industry reimplementations of the Java API had 13 promoted rather than hindered Sun's business plan.

14 To avoid the self-serving hearsay problem, Oracle attempted to lay foundation for the 15 response through the testimony of its CEO, Safra Catz, who oversaw the acquisition and testified 16 that Sun (not Oracle) had supplied the answer. Out of the presence of the jury, the Court stated it 17 would consider allowing Oracle to admit the response if it had originated with Sun rather than 18 Oracle (Tr. at 1314).

19 The next morning, out of the presence of the jury, Oracle proffered several drafts of the 20 response to the European Commission. These drafts purportedly traced earlier versions of the 21 response. They originated from Sun's in-house intellectual property counsel. Google protested 22 that these drafts had long been withheld from Google as privileged until the previous night, so 23 that it had had no opportunity to vet Oracle's representations about the drafts. Counsel for 24 Oracle responded that Oracle would waive the privilege. This after-the-deadline waiver, Google 25 replied, failed to cure the prejudice. Temporizing, the Court warned Oracle that its disclosure of 26 privileged documents would constitute an extraordinary waiver (Tr. at 1328).

27 Nevertheless, still out of the presence of the jury and using the privileged documents, 28 counsel for Oracle traced the internal development of the response to the European Commission.

1 One draft stated, colorfully, “[a] recidivist bank robber should not complain, at least to the 2 authorities, that the bank’s new owner might increase security measures around the bank” (Tr. at 3 1330). A subsequent email from Sun’s in-house counsel noted that Oracle’s corporate counsel 4 had removed the colorful language and stated “Re Android, we liked our recidivist bank robber 5 analogy” (Tr. at 1331). In light of its document tracing, Oracle proposed that Catz be permitted 6 to testify that the response to the European Commission originated with Sun (how she would 7 have known that on her own was never explained).

8 The Court rejected that proposal, a rejection that now serves as a ground for the Rule 59 9 motion.

10 It is true that Google presented evidence at trial that Sun had embraced a custom of 11 reimplementation of APIs and that Sun’s CEO had welcomed Android to the Java community.
12 It is further true that Google argued to the jury that this welcoming attitude reversed only after 13 Oracle took over Sun and brought this suit. Oracle was free to present counterevidence (and did) 14 but the extraordinary after-the-deadline waiver of privilege was too timewise prejudicial to 15 Google, should not have been allowed, and was not.⁶

16 Oracle’s gamesmanship deprived Google of a fair opportunity to vet the privileged 17 documents and to verify the supposed chain of authorship. Anyway, the timing of the emails 18 (at a time when Sun’s employees had cause to curry favor with their new boss) suggested that 19 any response “from Sun” was really “from Oracle.” This ground for a new trial is rejected.

20 E. Self-Serving In-House Presentations.

21 Oracle was barred from placing in evidence certain self-serving in-house materials, 22 offered supposedly to show how Android had hurt Oracle’s markets for Java. Specifically, as 23 part of its evidence on market harm under the fourth fair use factor, Oracle sought to admit Trial 24 Exhibits 5961, 6431, and 6470, which were in-house slide show presentations at Oracle. They 25 were used “as [Oracle’s] way of planning for [the] next year. They’re also used to educate 26

27
28 ⁶ Counsel for Oracle contended they could offer an email from 2008 in which someone internal to Sun stated Google’s conduct constituted copyright infringement, but no such document was ever shown to the Court or offered into evidence.

1 [Oracle's executives] about what is going on in the business" (Tr. at 1356). The presentations 2 included slides that discussed the purported impact of Android on Oracle's revenue.

3 Oracle invoked Rule 803(6) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, which provides an 4 exception to the rule excluding hearsay evidence for records of a regularly conducted activity, as 5 follows:

6 A record of an act, event, condition, opinion, or diagnosis if:

7 (A) the record was made at or near the time by — or from 8 information transmitted by — someone with knowledge;

9 (B) the record was kept in the course of a regularly conducted 10 activity of a business, organization, occupation, or calling, whether 11 or not for profit;

12 (C) making the record was a regular practice of that activity;

13 (D) all these conditions are shown by the testimony of the 14 custodian or another qualified witness, or by a certification that 15 complies with Rule 902(11) or (12) or with a statute permitting 16 certification; and 17 (E) the opponent does not show that the source of information or 18 the method or circumstances of preparation indicate a lack of 19 trustworthiness.

20 The Oracle-made documents contained slides with "highlights" and "lowlights" of 21 certain fiscal years, identified "priorities and key messages," summarized revenue data, 22 forecasts, and budgets, identified market challenges, and mapped out product strategies (Bush 23 Decl., Exhs. 26, 27, 29). As to Trial Exhibit 5961, Oracle offered the testimony of its CEO, 24 Safra Catz, to lay the foundation that the presentation had been prepared as part of Oracle's 25 annual budget review (Tr. at 1357). When Oracle moved to admit that exhibit into evidence, 26 Google objected, and the Court sustained the objection because it remained simply a slide show 27 of internal self-serving propositions (even worse, created pending this lawsuit). The Court 28 stated, "if it was just a financial statement, I would allow it, but there are too many slide shows in that document to qualify it as a business record" (Tr. at 1357). Counsel for Oracle sought to admit just page 21 of the exhibit, but that page, titled "FY11 Priorities and Key Messages — Java" suffered from the same self-serving problems. Indeed, that page addressed "integration-specific concerns” regarding the integration of Sun into Oracle — hardly a regularly-conducted activity.⁷

Oracle sought to admit similar presentations, Trial Exhibits 6431 and 6470, through the testimony of its former vice president of worldwide original electronic manufacturer sales, Neal Civjan, but those presentations were excluded on similar grounds.

Rule 803(6) is not an open window through which any self-serving in-house internal hearsay sails into evidence at the author’s behest:

The element of unusual reliability of business records is said variously to be supplied by systematic checking, by regularity and continuity which produce habits of precision, by actual experience of business in relying upon them, or by a duty to make an accurate record as part of a continuing job or occupation.

N.L.R.B. v. First Termite Control Co., Inc., 646 F.2d 424, 427 (9th Cir. 1981), opinion amended on reh’g sub nom. Natl. Lab. Rel. Bd. v. First Termite Control Co. Inc. (9th Cir. Aug. 5, 1981); see also Advisory Committee Notes, 1972 Proposed Rules, Note to Paragraph (6).

The Oracle presentations sought to be admitted were not the kinds of records that could be assured of their reliability due to systematic checking or habits of precision. On the contrary, the documents contained narrative, analysis, and commentary — i.e., self-serving argument. The only “regularity” of the self-serving presentations was that they arose as part of an annual budget review, but the statements themselves had not derived from such a systematic habit of precision. They otherwise lacked the indicia of trustworthiness sought by Rule 803(6). They were properly excluded as hearsay.

F. Bifurcation.

A pretrial order bifurcated the issues of fair use from willfulness and monetary remedies (Dkt. No. 1321 at 13). This prejudiced Oracle, it asserts, because “important market harm testimony never made it to the jury because it was relegated to the damages phase” and because ⁷ In its brief, Oracle describes this page as “a spreadsheet of revenue and expenses for the first two quarters of fiscal year 2011 for Java embedded and forecasts for the third quarter” (Pl.’s Mtn. at 23). Page 21 does not meet that description. It is possible, it now appears, that counsel for Oracle intended to direct Catz and the Court to page 23, but that error by Oracle then would not now be a reason to grant a new trial.

1 “bifurcation provided a structural incentive for the jury to return a defense verdict” (Pl.’s Mtn. at 20).

2 Oracle’s argument that bifurcation precluded it from presenting its market harm evidence 3 is simply untrue. Nothing about the bifurcation precluded Oracle in phase one from presenting 4 evidence of Oracle’s lost revenue attributable to Android. Indeed, Oracle presented extensive 5 evidence in phase one directed at the issue of market harm to the copyrighted works, the fourth 6 fair use factor.

7 Although there was some overlap in the evidence relevant to market harm and Oracle’s 8 actual damages (and Oracle remained free to present it in phase one and did), the most complex 9 evidence on Oracle’s remedies — the disgorgement of Google’s profits — had virtually no 10 relevance to the market harm/fair use inquiry. Section 107(4) on fair use focuses on the “effect 11 of the use upon the potential market for or value of the copyrighted work” (i.e., harm to Oracle).
12 Section 504(b) on remedies allows a copyright owner to recover “the actual damages suffered 13 . . . as a result of the infringement” (again, harm to Oracle) as well as “any profits of the 14 infringer that are attributable to the infringement” (Google’s profits from infringement) — to the 15 extent the awards are not duplicative. Put differently, phase one focused on market harm to the 16 copyrighted work whereas phase two focused on Oracle’s damages from that market harm and 17 possible disgorgement of Google’s profits attributable to the infringement. Oracle’s claim for 18 disgorgement of Google’s profits totaled more than ten times Oracle’s claimed actual damages
19 *and thus would have dominated Oracle’s case in phase two.*⁸

20 The disgorgement issue presented extraordinary complexity — complexity unrelated to 21 market harm to the copyrighted works. For one, Google never directly sold Android. Instead, 22 Google offered it free to all comers as open source. Google benefited indirectly. It used 23 Android as a platform for its other services, which earned revenue from advertisements and sales 24 of apps and media. But these other services (like its popular search engine) had already been 25 operating and earning revenue well before Android. Oracle conceded this but contended that 26 Android had multiplied that revenue. Thus, to isolate profits attributable to use of Oracle’s

27
28 ⁸ Google contended that the issue of disgorgement should not be presented to a jury. An order held that the jury would rule on disgorgement, but the Court would resolve Google’s argument after the verdict, possibly treating the jury’s verdict as advisory, if not conclusive (Dkt. No. 1769).

1 copyrighted code, the jury would have been required to apportion, first of all, the revenue 2 between the pre-existing technology already in place versus Android.

3 Next the jury would have had to further apportion between the accused lines of code 4 versus the unaccused lines of code within Android. The infringing part of Android constituted 5 only a small fraction of one percent of Android. Oracle conceded this but contended that this 6 sliver held the key to the success of Android. These apportionment difficulties were just two 7 examples of many posed by the disgorgement claim for our jury.

8 Thus, phase two was poised to present bone-crushing analytics on how to apportion any 9 Android profits attributable to the infringement versus profits attributable to non-infringement.
10 To meet this challenge, the parties presented dueling economic models yielding massively 11 different answers. Again, unlike Oracle's lost profits segment, the apportionment/disgorgement 12 problems had virtually no relevance to market harm and fair use.

13 In the Court's judgment and discretion, our trial was best managed by postponing that 14 mind-bender to phase two, so that the jury could give its undivided attention in phase one to the 15 critical issue of fair use. Dividing the trial further served the important purpose of saving the 16 resources of the Court and the jury (and the parties) in the event that the jury decided against 17 Oracle on fair use.

18 To repeat, Oracle was free to present its lost profits and other market harm evidence in 19 phase one — and it did so at length. (In phase two, all previously admitted evidence would still 20 have been deemed in evidence.)

21 Turning to Oracle's structural incentive argument, the Court instructed the jury not to 22 allow any desire to conclude the trial sooner to influence its decision. We must presume the 23 jurors followed the instruction, and there is nothing to indicate otherwise. Richardson v. Marsh, 24 481 U.S. 200, 206 (1987). Oracle's structural incentive argument, such as it is, would 25 undermine every bifurcation of damages from liability. Yet the law plainly allows bifurcation.⁹

26
27 ⁹ The Court instructed the jury as follows (Dkt. No. 1950 ¶ 46):

28 Once you render a verdict on the fair use question, we may proceed to the shorter and final phase of the trial on damages issues, depending on your answer

1 It deserves to be said, in favor of our jury, that the ten who served were as punctual, 2 attentive, and diligent in note-taking as any jury this district judge has seen in seventeen years of 3 service. They had all cleared their calendars. We were on target to meet or beat the time 4 estimate given to the jury. Those with hardships had already been excused during jury selection.
5 It is impossible to even suspect that bifurcation somehow steered the jury to rule as it did. The 6 Court remains completely convinced that the verdict rested, after three days of deliberation, 7 solely on the jury's sincere assessment of the evidence and the instructions of law.

8 CONCLUSION

9 For the reasons stated above, Oracle's motion for a new trial and its motion for judgment 10 as a matter of law are DENIED.

12 IT IS SO ORDERED.

to the fair use question. This would still be within the June 10 end date stated earlier. Please do not allow any desire to complete trial sooner to influence your thinking. Once you render your verdict on the fair use issue, it will be final and may not be re-visited or modified during the second phase.
